Re: Interim Report - Technology Grant
Fellows Program for Producing a Photo Bank in the CD-ROM format

I spent eight weeks in Japan last spring and took photos in order to distribute them through the Copyright-free Audio-Visual Resource Center, established at Washington and Lee University in 1998.

After coming back to campus, I gave all the photos to Jeff Overholtzer, the coordinator of the Realia Project, to have the Computer Center improve the color quality of the photos. Jeff will return the photos very soon, and as soon as I receive them, I will put them on my webpage and at the same time make them available in the CD-ROM format to Japanese teachers who teach at ACS-, ACM- and GLCA-affiliated institutions.

The Audio-Visual Resource Center has distributed 4 CDs since 1998, and those who would like to get them can visit my website (<http://home.wlu.edu/~ujiek/avrcj.html>).
